MORE DISCUSSION.

The reading of the testimony having concluded, Visitor Shaw moved the adoption of the report of the committee.

Visitor DiBose claimed that the charges made by Mr. Murray had been proven, but he felt that it was almost uscless to discuss the matter, because on looking around the room he could see that the members would probably adopt the report. Several witnesses swore that Superintendent Collier was drank, but many swore that they had never seen him drunk. The weight of testimony, however, was in favor of Mr. Collier's morality. He believed the superintendent guilty and ought to be removed.

Visitor Scales, of the committee, replied, stating that the minutes of the investigation showed how excluded; hearsay evidence was, of course, excluded.

Visitor Shaw said that he would support the report of the committee. The preponderance of the testimony was in favor of the superintendent and in favor of his sobriety on the occasions referred to.
There was nothing in the charges made against the superintendent.

Visitor Jordan was surprised at the charges made, because they were old charges that had been let slumber until this late day. The committee was superjudiced, and had made full investigation.
He believed it the duty of the school board to surport the finding of the committee in favor of Superintendent Collier.

Visitor Dull se replied that the committee should

A GREAT REVELATION.

Human Happiness and Timely Sug-gestions About Securing It. Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr.

Charles Craig Before the Metropolitan Scientific Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the development of mental power seems equally great, in every other department of life. The valuable laventions of the day are counted by thousands. The furchase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause

COMMENT ON EVERY SIDE, while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentaily or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truths which the people have found, even in the last fitty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and suppossibly scientific-people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elabo ate essay to prove that steamships could never-cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was issued just in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed that the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of thebody have crested and transformed. It was once suppose t that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain came in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates discussed kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect tungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangement of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body, and away from the head, cause can the pain be curve? It is a matter of
